Hope to not be bugging you Joe, just seeing if we have any clue what time I need to be in Buffalo tomorrow. Assume your plans are similar so potential meeting after 3:00?

(I just found out about this.)The purpose of the meeting is to advise them that DEC referred the site to us for a removal action. We'll obviously have to explain what that means. Since we can't do much removal assessment activities until the shutdown is complete, we need to start looking into taking over the utilities and providing site security. DEC is obvious invited to attend. If you can't make it, let me know who can.

Figured there would be more changes to situation so was going to wait until this afternoon to ask Mike Ryan if he still wanted me to go to Buffalo tomorrow. I believe my role was to bridge EPA staff and DEC staff but it looks like they're already engaged. I will let you know what Mike says this pm. If it was a consideration, I don't believe you should let my plans effect your best decision. (Don't go to Buffalo in my account). However, if you do decide what you're going to do please let me know because it may effect Mike's decision.

I will activate our contractor and gave them begin to work on taking over the utilities and providing security.
